A snap shot of Allied Health Professionals

Paediatric Occupational Therapists: Work with children and key people in their lives to build an understanding of the child's strengths & challenges across various contexts. Their primary goal is to enable children to participate in the activities of everyday life. OT's work with children by exploring their movement and strength in any particular activity and can give advice on how best to do something more easily and safely.

Speech Pathologists: Support people with communication, eating and drinking difficulties. Communication support includes speech, writing, reading, gesturing and using communication aids. Speech Pathologists may support you to find strategies to develop your communication including aids and assistive technologies, as well as providing strategies to assist if you have difficulty eating or drinking or if you cough or choke on food or drinks. (Speech Pathology, Speech Language Pathology and Speech Therapy are all conducted by the same therapist)

Physiotherapists: Support people to recover from injury, reduce pain and stiffness and increase mobility. PT are experts in movement and function and can support you to prevent further injury to your body.

Audiologists: Provide a range of services to meet the hearing and communication needs of all people, including: diagnostic evaluation of hearing; tinnitus; balance and auditory processing disorders; rehabilitation services such as hearing aid fitting; public and primary health care strategies for managing or promoting ear health. Audiology involves the assessment, prevention and non-medical management of hearing impairment and associated disorders of communication.

Orthotists: Assess, design, prescribe, fit and monitors orthoses, commonly known as braces and splints, for people with foot, limb or spinal impairments. An orthosis is a brace or appliance that is designed and fitted to the body to achieve one or more of the following goals: control biomedical alignment; protect and support a healing injury; assist rehabilitation; reduce pain; increase mobility; and increase independence. An Orthotist shows you how to make the best of your orthosis and makes adjustments if needed.

Psychologists: Work with people to identify the types of supports they might need to achieve their goals and to develop skills needed to function better. Psychologists may work on: stress management, depression and other emotional wellbeing issues; behaviour; relationships and communication; learning and memory. Psychologists assess individual strengths and areas requiring some support and recommend strategies to assist.

Orthoptists: Are eye healthcare professionals who are trained in the assessment and treatment of patients with eye disorders. They specialise in children's vision, eye movement disorders and low vision care and play a crucial role in the detection, diagnosis and management of eye diseases in children.

#Allied Health Service Information taken from the www.therapychoices.org.au site

Specialist Teacher (Vision Impairment) Specialist teachers support a child with a vision impairment in the educational, home and community settings, considers the adaptations to be made, and knows how programs are differentiated to cater for the child in order to access the curriculum. Social skills, independent living, braille, assistive technology and orientation and mobility skills are all vital in ensuring the person with a vision impairment continues their lifelong learning and participates safely in the community with these skill sets. Learning begins from birth.

Better Start Resources Component:

Within the Better Start $12 000 funding there is $4200 or 35% of the funding that can be accessed for the purchase of resources. $2100 of this funding can be accessed in a single financial year. These resources are determined by your Better Start Service Provider only. If there is a resource that you are interested in purchasing please discuss with your Service Provider to determine if it is within scope of the program. If there are any questions regarding this purchase and it's validity to your child's therapy, the Service provider will contact the Department of Social Services to seek Clarification.

Better Start Financial Statements:

You will be issued a financial statement from the Department of Social Services each month when you are using your funding. It will be emailed to you or in the case of not having an email account it will be posted. Should you move or change contact details please contact your Registration and Information Advisor to advise of your change of details. Should you wish to have an updated statement please contact the Department of Social Services on 1800 778 581 or email Early.Intervention@dss.gov.au

AUSLAN Training: Can now be provided via the Resource component of the Better Start Funding. Please contact Deaf Services Queensland Phone 3892 8540 email auslan@deafsq.org.au or check on their website www.deafservicesqld.org.au Payment for this training can be organised through your service provider or contact HICTI – Hearing Impaired Children's Therapies Ph 3848 0080 info@hicti.com.au
